BIOGRAPHY

Sara focuses her practice on estate planning and trust and estate administration.

Born and raised in the United Kingdom, Sara received her Bachelor's degree, with honors, in philosophy from the University of Hull (U.K). Sara graduated, cum laude, from Temple University Beasley School of Law. During law school, Sara served as a staff editor for Temple Law Review. She was the recipient of the H. Monica Rasch Memorial Award from Temple University Beasley School of Law and was the winner of the Philadelphia Bar Association's Ruth Bader Ginsburg "Pursuit of Justice" Legal Writing Competition. Sara also served as a research assistant for Professor Nancy Knauer, assisting Professor Knauer as she edited an international Research Handbook on Law, Society and Ageing.

Prior to joining Heckscher, Teillon, Terrill & Sager, Sara spent a number of years within the healthcare practice of a leading retained executive search firm representing hospitals, health systems, and senior services organizations around the country.
